Women, Power Relations, and Education in a Transnational World

- Features contributions from established scholars and experts on the history of education and gender history from twelve countries
- First volume to bridge the fields of Transnational History, Gender History, and Educational History
- Includes a mix between theory/method discussions and more empirical narrative

This edited collection addresses the nexus of gender, power relations, and education from various angles while covering a broad spectrum of the history of education in both time and geographic space. Taking the position that historians of gender and education find the concept of transnationalism very useful for a deeper understanding of historical change and situations, the editors and their contributors employ a transnational perspective to explore the complex and entangled dimensions of a history of education that transcends regional and national boundaries through a variety of approaches (e.g. through exploring new fields of research, sources, questions, perspectives for interpretation, or methodologies). In doing so, they also undertake to open up a transnational global perspective for the historiography of education.
